

Jane DeMarchi returned to the North American Millers' Association as its president in 2020. NAMA is the only national trade association that exclusively represents the interests of the North American wheat, corn and oat milling industry before Congress, federal agencies, and international regulatory bodies. Prior to this role, she worked at the American Seed Trade Association (ASTA) and the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG). Earlier in her career, she lived and worked in Hong Kong and Shanghai, China.

Devin Mogler is the President and CEO of NOPA. He previously served as the Senior Vice President of Corporate and Investor Relations for Green Plains Inc., one of the largest ethanol producers globally. During his seven years at Green Plains, he led all policy development and advocacy efforts while supporting communications, marketing, and sustainability initiatives.

Prior to Green Plains, Mogler served in the U.S. Senate as an advisor to Senator Joni Ernst (R-IA) on agriculture, environmental, and biofuels policy. He played a key role developing Farm Bill priorities, advocating on the Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS), and pushing back on federal regulatory overreach. Prior to his time in the Senate, Mogler served in a variety of roles at Farmers Cooperative Company from 2008 to 2015, ultimately leading the entire Operations team as Senior Vice President of Operations.

Mogler holds a B.A. in Economics and Agricultural Business from Iowa State University, where he served in various leadership and internship roles, including as a merchandising intern with NOPA member company AGP. He grew up on a third-generation family farm in Lyon County, IA, where his father, brother, nephews and extended family still raise soybeans, corn, feeder cattle and farrow to finish hogs.

Mike Seyfert is the President and CEO of the National Grain and Feed Association (NGFA). Immediately before joining NGFA in March 2021, Mike served seven years with FMC Corporation as the Director of Government and Industry Affairs North America.

Prior to FMC, he served 16 years working on Capitol Hill for former U.S. Senator Pat Roberts (R-Kans.), including two years as the Staff Director of the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry.

He is a graduate of Kansas State University and George Washington University. Mr. Seyfert was the fourth generation raised on his family farm in Kansas. He and his family remain active in the farm today with crops including hay, soybeans, sorghum, and wheat.