

Taylor Ortiz is the co-founder of TPAC Capital and Pack Creek Capital, where she specializes in custom risk-management strategies for commercial grain cooperatives. With more than a decade of experience spanning global equity trading and agricultural commodity markets, she is recognized for her focus on price improvement and client education. Ortiz began her career in institutional equity sales at JonesTrading and Macquarie Bank and later led business development at Pack Creek Capital before co-founding TPAC. She holds a degree in International Business from the University of St Andrews in Scotland.